NEW WASH WAISTS

Made by the GALE M'F'G Co.

There's a distinction about The GALE made Waists that gives the pleased wearer the exclusiveness that every well-dressed Lady seeks. Other manufacturers wait for the Gale styles to come out, then try to follow; but imitators seldom reach their leaders. So it is with the making of Whitewear. GALE'S have a place at the top. You'll see that this is true when you see the goods.

FARMERS SEEDING.

The farmers of the Red Deer district are on their land disking and harrowing, and John Richards will begin seeding to-day.

Overall Factory Booming.

L. M. Gaetz, manager of the overall factory, is a very busy man these days. The factory has grown in a few months from two machines to thirteen and it is hard to keep pace with the demand for the excellent goods turned out by this enterprising firm. This week a lady expert from Winnipeg, familiar with every detail of the business, has been added to the staff, materially strengthening the firm. Already a site for a factory has been secured north of the Baptist church and a suitable building will be erected in the near future.

AT THE BIJOU.

A fine program has been arranged for Friday and Saturday matinee and night. The feature film is a thrilling drama, full of interest and excitement, "The Taking of the Moonstone." This scene, for artistic realism, has never been surpassed, it transports the audience from the commonplace of the work-a-day world into the mystic pagan symbolism of India. "Hat of fortune" is one of the views and will hold the attention of the audience from start to finish. "Any Port in a Storm" is also good. "Bye, Bye, Dearie," the well known illustrated song, will be given at all performances on Friday and Saturday by Miss Van Buskirk.

Welliver's rink leads in the Brumpton Cup competition. The single competition has not been completed.

A crowd of people from here went out to the dance at Rocky Mountain House last week, and reported having had a fine time.

Miss Reilly and Miss Mabel Reilly spent this week in town. They assisted at the Baptist Church concert last Thursday evening.

The Late Mrs. Fred Losse.

Mrs. Losse, wife of Fred Losse, residing three miles north of town, died early Wednesday morning last, March 9th. Deceased suffered with a sore on the third finger of her right hand for a couple of weeks, but no notice was taken of it, but a few days before her death the pain extended up her arm and a doctor was called in. Blood poisoning was found to have set in, and although everything possible was done, Mrs. Losse died very suddenly from the effects of the disease as above stated. Great sympathy is felt for Mr. Losse in the death of his wife, and for the members of the family, consisting of Fred, Hugh, Ernest, Mrs. Joseph Martin and Miss Annie Losse, residing at home. The funeral took place on Friday afternoon to the Red Deer cemetery, Rev. Mr. Tyner conducting the service. Mr. Losse desires to thank all the friends who were so kind to him in his great bereavement.

The Situation at Edmonton.

On Monday Premier Rutherford gave notice of a resolution to appoint a royal commission, consisting of Judges Scott, Harvey and Beak to investigate the railway deal. Their powers seem to be limited to enquiring whether any member of the legislature was directly interested in the railway. The motion does not go far enough.

A number of accounts were passed and the question of allowing the Natural History Society the use of the Assembly room for meetings was discussed. HIGH COURT JUDGE ASSAILED AS SCOUNDREL

Member of B.C. Legislature Declares Leading Judge to Be a Fugitive from Justice in Yukon Courts.

Victoria, B.C., March 4.—A remarkable attack on the supreme court bench of British Columbia was made in the legislature to-day by A. H. B. MacGowan, member for Vancouver. In referring to a bill to amend the supreme court act of the province, MacGowan moved that a new section be added reading: "Provided however that no person shall be eligible for the position of judge of the said court, or sit in judgement on any case, who has been tried and convicted of crime, or who has been charged, and not absolutely exonerated, of such charge, or against whom the slightest suspicion of wrong doing remains."

MacGowan said he had never had a case before the supreme court, and he hoped to God that he never would. The judiciary was bad. The judges were appointed through political influences. The highest legal authorities in the province had characterized the supreme court bench as composed of two lunatics, one fool and one scoundrel, and a fugitive from justice. The three former he would leave to their deserts from the Almighty. Of the latter, he had nothing to say. The perquisite of a judge was to protect those unable to protect themselves. The man of whom he spoke was better fitted for the penitentiary than to hold any position in the courts of the land. He was worse than a bushomber, awaiting the incoming tide, to rob its human jetsam, worse than the ghouls prowling around the morgue to wrest the rings from the fingers of the dead.

What was the history of this man? Years ago, a miner had died in the Yukon. His widow came forward and claimed her inheritance of gold, only to find it had been taken by another man, there were delays, unintentional or otherwise, before the wheels of justice began to revolve. The culprit escaped, for a couple of years he rusticated, then turned up again in this province. He was promoted to the courts. A good political tool, his promotion was rapid. He reached the supreme court bench. The methods of the Yukon had followed this man to British Columbia. Justice was being bought and sold. Here, it was only necessary to make it right with the "powers that be," and justice was meted out accordingly.

In the course of the debate, Attorney-General Bowser pointed out that the province had no power to deal with the constitution of the Supreme court bench in British Columbia, and pressure of MacGowan's motion was withdrawn.

Arrangements have been made for the holding of an Educational Convention in Calgary on March 29th, 30th and 31st. This Convention will in all probability organize a permanent provincial educational association which will provide for the holding of annual conventions of the educationalists of the Province. The Minister of Education has nominated a Provisional Executive under whose direction a programme has been prepared. Printed copies of these will be forwarded to all teachers in a few days and all others interested in the subject are urged to apply to the Department of Education or to the Provisional Secretary, W. H. Thompson, Principal of the Normal School, Calgary. Full particulars regarding railway rates, etc., will be given on the programmes.

SHORTHORN BLOOD MAKES HIGH-PRICED FARM CATTLE.

The Good Old Shorthorn Cow is Still the Standby and Mixing Breeds is Bad.

In spite of the introduction at times of various specialized breeds of cattle in the mixed farming sections of the west, the old reliable shorthorn continues on the even tenor of his way, and is to-day the most popular breed for general farming in Alberta. In districts where specialization along any line is desired, such as in the dairies supplying large towns and cities, or among breeders of fancy stock, the dairy breeds lead. But upon thousands of farms which produce grain and hay, raise and fatten cattle and hogs, and conduct a farm dairy, not to supply milk, but for market, the Shorthorn has proved the most satisfactory breed, and is the most widely used of any.

MILKING BEEF ANIMAL REQUIRED.
The cost of raising a steer of the lighter dairy breeds is as great as that of maturing an inferior article at best. These considerations have given rise to a widespread demand for a practical dual purpose animal suited to the requirements of farm conditions. The widespread and increasing use of the shorthorn would seem to warrant the conclusion that this breed comes nearer to the fulfillment of these requirements than any other. While it is essentially a beef breed, it is equally true that many of the leading strains have splendid milking qualities in their make-up. These facts are being fully recognized by many of our farmers now that beef scarcity faces us, and splendid herds of milking grade Shorthorns are being built up as a result. No other breed seems to so well fulfill the requirements. The other purely beef breeds lack the milking qualities. A dual purpose animal produced by many to be no better milkers and not so good feeders. A paying, moderately literal flow of milk, and a good red calf that will feed well, and dress out well, are the two products which the farm cow is expected to produce in the mixed farming districts. Either one of these qualities alone is not sufficient, though possessed in exceptional degree. The cow must pay her way in milk. The hay and grain crop must be consumed upon the farm according to the practice of modern agriculture, and feeder cattle are the medium through which these products are marketed. Shorthorns are supplying the peculiar needs of this type of farm cattle.

That man is doing good service to his country who persists in maintaining that great, deep-bodied, gentle milking Shorthorn cow, which will raise a good calf, milk well, and in the end make a good market proposition herself.

HUNTED THE HUNTER.

An Exciting Adventure With a Wounded Buffalo Cow.

This adventure with a wounded buffalo cow is from William Vance's "Three Years' Sport in Moosehounds." "In about half an hour we arrived at a ravine closed with dense forest. The tracks disappeared, and I was just about to open my mouth to tell my mate that we had better look when I saw him throw up his rifle and fire. The smoke comes in my direction and prevents me from seeing anything. Nevertheless I perceive a mass moving in the thicket. I send a ball and land at the head of the animal. The tracks disappear, and I am unable to reach the animal, which is galloping away. I believe myself lost. In one wink of the eye my life passes before me. There is no time to lose. I turn on the left foot, so as to present only my back to the animal, and throw myself on the ground, my head between my outstretched arms, my face toward the earth. My rifle lies on the ground, only just in time, for the beast gives me a thrust of her horn, which passes beneath me and does no more harm than to unbalance my position. She sniffs and endeavors to gore, but only succeeds in rubbing my neck with her forehead, the form of her forehead preventing her from reaching the ground. She kneels down and recommences, without raising myself, I am covered with her blood. Then she raises herself and, marching over my right hand, which she scents, and crushing my right thigh, passes over me and remains motionless. "I gently stretch out my hand to reach my rifle and reload it. I intend to turn myself suddenly on my back, without raising myself, to fire point blank. At the moment I am about to execute this manoeuvre she passes over my left leg, gives a kick with her foot to my rifle and crushes my hand. She makes a short pause and then she rises to a fast trot, with head elevated and fierce mien. I spring to my feet and cry to the no-man's-land. I seize my rifle and reload, but by the time I get it to my shoulder the beast has re-entered the thicket.

The Silkworm Business.
The raising of silkworms for business purposes is confined to the warmer climates, where such trade has a probability of becoming remunerative. The principal countries where the silkworm put into the manufacture of fishing tackle are Spain, Italy and France. The most important source of production in Spain is in the province of Murcia, where the peasants collect and sell out to the merchants, with whose care it undergoes a lengthy process of preparation before being delivered to the market. Barring local common origin, this trade has no point of contact whatever with the manufacture of silk, as worms that are well timed for one of these purposes become entirely useless for the other.

Sometimes Only a Lease.
"You never can tell just what kind of a document a marriage certificate is," said the real estate man thoughtfully.
"What do you mean by that?" asked the lawyer.
"Why, take the case of old man Jenkins," returned the real estate man by way of illustration. "He donated his marriage certificate was a bill of sale and gave him absolute title to his wife."
"Didn't it?"
"Well, hardly. It turns out to have been no more than a lease."
"How so?"
"She has secured a divorce."

A Sure Thing Sport.
A well-known politician on setting out for a day's sport with a bend pointed to a large animal which lay apparently asleep in the hall and he fired a bullet which did not attract the deer's attention. The bird was readily accepted, and after the failure of a sharp whistle and a blank cartridge to cause the slightest movement the quiver was delivered up.
"That's my old dog Mahatma! I had stuffed a few weeks ago," laughed the politician, "and that's the least quiver he's brought me."

Truthful James.
In one instance at least bad spelling enabled an office boy to express the precise fact. His employer has just reluctantly led to a meeting of bank directors where the proceedings were sure to be long and prosy.
"James," he said to the towheaded lad, "put up the sign saying that I am out."
James sought for it in vain, so he inserted and pointed the following truthful announcement: "Out. Gone to a Board Meeting."

Avoiding Worry.
"Write—Here comes a friend of mine. Let's turn into this side street until she passes."
"Husband—Quarrelled with her?"
"No, but I don't want you to see her."
"Hum! Why not?"
"I know you'll admire that new dress of hers, and it will only worry you to think you're inferior to her. You made over the bills for this cheap thing I've got on."

Makes the Pair.

WILL THEY BE ABLE TO BLUFF THE PEOPLE?

The pitiable plight of the Rutherford government the past week has been food for thought for every self-respecting citizen of Alberta.

Charged with the most flagrant acts of corruption, charged with tampering with and mutilating files, charged with neglecting the welfare of the province in the most open manner, charged with willfully losing tremendous sums of money by sale of bonds, charged with divers kinds of collusion with the promoters to the direct injury of the province, they sit like dumb animals. No answer is given to the charges.

A large number of the self-respecting members oppose the government.

Still they greet the people with brazen faces and try to bluff the opposition into thinking they are justified in the course they have taken.

Two ministers have resigned as a protest against their action, and probably in a few days the Government will be defeated on one of the many motions which will be brought against them by the active opposition.

In the meanwhile, every constituency should see that its representative views its sentiments.

Such men as Simpson, of Innisfaul, Puffer, of Lacombe, Shaw, of Stettler, and others who have voted in direct opposition to the wishes of their constituencies should be made to feel the lash of public sentiment, and be taught that they cannot defy the electors with impunity.

Seeking Ex-Members Queen's Own Rifles.

Request that all communicate with the Secretary of the Regiment's Semi-Centennial Re-Union.

Several thousands of former members of the Queen's Own Rifles will assemble from all parts of the continent at Toronto next June, for a reunion in celebration of the Semi-Centennial of the regiment. The festivities will commence Saturday, June 18th, with a reception at Government House, his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, like many other notables, being an ex-member of the crack regiment. On Sunday a monster Church Parade of ex-members and the present members will be a unique affair. During the week, grand historical pageants on a scale only equalled at the Quebec Tercentenary will be given by several thousand performers on the Rosedale Athletic Grounds. In addition, there will be numerous social meetings of old comrades.

Correspondence.

To the Editor of the News,
Sir,—After perusing the recent article by Dr. Grant, the thought occurred to me that the amount of relief afforded him must have been great. The next thing in order will doubtless be a retraction of his retractions and an apology for his former retractions. As comrade Isaacson has thrown some light on the matter, it will not be necessary for me to deal with the Doctor's case beyond calling attention to the fact that in order to make anything of a case he found it necessary to resort to misquotation, and to leaving out of consideration my statement that Parliament action and party propaganda are two different things. Furthermore, Dr. Grant turns my question relating to the amount the capitalists can pay for labor power into a positive statement. A newspaper article can be of value to the working class only in two ways, namely educational or amusing, and believing that anything had better not be printed, the doctor, with his evidences of senile decay, is herewith left behind. For the sake of light rather than argument, I shall herewith take up a few points of importance. If the capitalists can pay more for the commodity labor power, than they do at present, it at once becomes evident that there is no immediate danger to the working class of Canada from the outside. Hence their attention should be directed toward the point of immediate danger, "capitalism as it exists in Canada to-day." To even the most superficial student of economics it must be evident that the capitalist system of production must cease as soon as the workers get all they produce, and perhaps some time before that point is reached. There are certain definite rules of the game and boundaries within which the capitalists stay if they are to succeed as such. Statistics and financial statement would seem to indicate that the surplus value accruing to the capitalists, after paying for labor power, raw material, buildings and equipment, varies considerably. Profit on material entering into the construction of buildings, contractors' profits, etc., enter into these figures as cost of production expenditures. Now, by way of illustration, let us take a trip to Wall Street and study the stock market, and we will soon find that the price of stock varies according to the ability of any particular company to pay dividends. If any capitalist, or set of capitalists should pay much more for labor power they purchase than its cost of production, profits would fall off, shrink in volume, and their capital would shrink in proportion to the shrinkage in profits. Greater resistance power of the workers in the case of strikes and litigations would be another result. Our hope lies along the line of putting an end to capitalism, freeing the workers from the disgrace of hunting around for a master that will pay them as much per head per day. In order to do this the minds of the people must be prepared for the change. Socialism will never come as a thief in the night, but as a step deliberately taken by the majority of the people. We must be prepared to step in and carry on industry, produce or make it possible for the people to get access to the means of production for the satisfaction of their requirements. When we become collective owners of everything collectively operated the benefits will accrue to us and the question of Asiatic encroaching on us will not be a serious one for a while yet. A form must exist before there can be a reform. High tariff, low tariff, free trade and protection are all reforms, have all been tried in different places, but never could, and never will benefit the working class as a whole. The Sherman anti-trust law in the U.S. was a reform, and much valuable time was wasted in getting it, and its object was to stop evolution by preventing the socialization of industry. It proved a boomerang and a suit is now entered by the Tobacco Trust to compel the Tobacco Growers Association to pay the Trust the difference in what they had to pay for tobacco owing to the Growers' Association and what they could have bought tobacco for otherwise. The fight free press, free speech, and the right of assembly are only incidents of the class struggle. Attempts of the capitalists to close the most important avenues of spreading information, and vary in intensity according to the clearance of our propaganda. We will have to face persecution here, as in other countries. Here is one instance. The Canadian postal department has made a special ruling against Cotton's Weekly, E. Curtis, E. Tilsworth, Chas. Raymond, H. W. Metcalfe, J. B. Harrington, A. J. McLaughlin, W. M. Reed, Grant Curry, A. J. Kent, E. R. Knott, W. D. Lundy, J. A. Silverton, J. H. Rose, J. G. Trizali, A. D. Watson, G. G. Molloy, H. A. Murphy, A. D. Murphy, W. N. Morrison.

THE CRISIS AT EDMONTON.

CHAOS FOR A WEEK.

Brief Summary of Greatest Flopp in History of Alberta.

On Wednesday last word was flashed over the wires that Attorney-General Cross had resigned, and the Premier asked Mr. Cushing to come back to the Cabinet. It was claimed Mr. Cushing promised he would come back if Cross was out of the Cabinet. This Mr. Cushing positively denies. He would not go back. The province is in great ferment. It was thought the Government would not be able to last more than 24 hours, and that Mr. Cushing would be asked to form a new cabinet.

On Thursday Mr. Buchanan had resigned. Although the air is full of resignations and reported resignations, no official announcement of any vacancies referring to cabinet or civil servants have yet been made. Hon. W. A. Buchanan, when asked regarding his reasons for resigning, replied: "I have resigned, but further than that I can say nothing." Hon. C. W. Cross is in somewhat the same position, stating that he is now a private member, but he gives as his reason for resigning, the fact that Premier Rutherford plainly told him that Cushing was coming back into the cabinet.

Sydney B. Woods, the deputy attorney-general, was asked if he had resigned. "Yes, I have," was all that he would say, and would not give any further information.

In the meantime, rumor is very busy with the names of Messrs. Duncan Marshall and P. E. Lessard, but both refuse to talk on the subject. Marshall is apparently a little worried, but Lessard is very cheerful, and to all inquiries gives the smiling answer, "It looks serious enough, doesn't it, but I am not talking at all today."

Several servants under Cross are also said to have handed in their resignations. Chief of these is W. A. Deyl, Chief License Inspector. Deyl was also asked if he had resigned, but answered that he did not care to make any statements at all. James Thom, private secretary to Hon. C. W. Cross, is another who is said to have decided to quit, but when asked, he also smiled and makes evasive answers. However, it is learned that he has not yet left the service.

When the house opened on Wednesday, only Premier Rutherford was in the ministerial benches. Later on, Lessard came in and took his seat, but the seats that lay between them were unoccupied, Cross, Marshall and Buchanan not putting in an appearance.

This naturally caused a lot of comment, and the house was crowded with spectators, in expectation that Rutherford would make some statement. However, they were disappointed, as he said nothing, and as far as outward appearances went, he did not give any signs that he saw the empty seats.

Friday morning found the Premier still unable to do anything. If a vote had been put to the house of want of confidence, the government would most assuredly have gone down to defeat. The opposition did not insist.

Friday noon a round robin was signed by fifteen members asking Cross to form a government. Peter Talbot is spoken of as the new leader, also Chief Justice Sifton. Nothing done but it looks as though the government will hang on to the last gasp.

Saturday Hon. C. W. Cross has come back to the government and things are pretty much where they were on Tuesday, except that the government has lost some support.

On a vote of confidence the government was sustained by a majority of 3, the vote standing 20 to 17.

Hon. A. C. Rutherford announced he did not intend to resign, and felt confident of winning out.

When the vote was taken it was seen that the government had won again, though with a reduced majority, the vote standing 17-20, O'Brien, Socialist, not voting. The vote stood:

For—Bennett, Hoadley, Michener, Riley, Holden, Stewart, Glendinning, McKenny, Campbell, Smith, Roberts, McDougall, Cushing, Boyle, Warlock, McLean and Buchanan.

Against—Rutherford, Cross, Marshall, Lessard, McKenzie, Woolf, Walker, Telford, Simpson, Smith, McPherson, Cote, Cornwall, Boudreau, A. Campbell, Moore, Shaw, Stauffer, Puffer.

IMPORTANT MOTION.
Smith (Camrose) gave notice of a motion of a motion for Tuesday. It is as follows:

Whereas the incorporating the Alberta and Great Waterways railway provides that the government shall have the option of purchasing the entire undertaking of the company at any time for the then fair value thereof as a going concern, and whereas, for the purpose of exercising such option of purchase at any future date, it is of the utmost importance that there should be efficient supervision of the actual cost of such railway, and whereas the provisions of the agreement between the government and the aforesaid company requiring the approval of all plans by the government of all plans and profiles before the said road is proceeded with have not been observed,

Therefore, be it resolved that this house instruct the government to stay all proceedings in connection with the building of the said Alberta and Great Waterways railroad until an independent commission, free from all political control, is appointed, with such powers and duties as may hereafter be fixed by this legislature to protect the interests of this province in connection with the building of the said road.

The house adjourned to Tuesday.

ROSS AVENUE

RED DEER.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The regular meeting of the Town Council was held Thursday evening last, Mayor S. E. McKee in the chair. Councillors Weller, Caracallen, Tallman, Hill and Galbraith present.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Jno. McMillan asked leave to move sign to new quarters. John Galt wrote in reply to the secretary's letter, stating the septic tank would cost about $8,500 and the complete filtration system about $10,000.

Farmers' Advocate wanted names of several old time farmers for descriptive farming.

The Hon. Minister of Indian Revenue wrote that all matters relating to ports of entry were dealt with by the department of Customs, and the secretary wrote to that department accordingly.

The provincial sanitary engineer, Mr. Owens, wrote regarding sanitary system of sewerage. J. K. Jones, secretary of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, wrote as follows: Referring to an application made by The Alberta Central Railway Company for approval of a route map of the proposed location of line from Red Deer to Rocky Mountain House.

have to inform you that such application has been set down for hearing by the Minister at his office in the Western Block, Ottawa, on Monday, 21st March, at 12 o'clock.

A route map was sent the Town by J. T. Moore, president of the company.

Councillor Hill moved that the request of John McMillan to move sign post be not granted. Motion carried.

COMMISSIONERS' REPORT.

We drew up specifications for the bedroom in the fire hall and asked for tenders. Tenders were: Hugh Clarke, $39.20; Thos. Miller, $40.00. The committee tender of Hugh Clarke, and instructed him to do the work. (Tender attached.)

Greene & Payne report having received a Judge's order closing the street in Block D. They are getting a transfer of the street from J. R. Cowell to the Town, which Mr. Cowell agreed to give when the purchase was made.

We recommend that a uniform be provided for Chief Meers for his use on special occasions, parades, etc.

We recommend that J. Halstead be engaged as caretaker of cemetery and repair for six months from April 1st at a salary of $80 per month.

On the 4th inst., Mr. Albert, Calgary representative of the John McDougall Iron Works, from whom we ordered the pump, telephoned that the company could not ship the pump for five or six weeks, though it should have been shipped before now.

The route of the Alberta Central Railway Company is on file in the office, showing the route from Red Deer to Rocky Mountain House.

Many licenses are still unpaid. We have instructed Chief Rothnie to collect these at once, and also to strictly enforce the by-law regarding dogs. Notices have been posted around town warning people of the provisions of this by-law.

Learning that the Provincial Health Dept was arranging to build a sewage purification system at Strathcona for a test, we wrote R. P. Owens, Provincial Sanitary Engineer, for particulars of his system, and he sent a blue print and specifications. As the cost of this system is reported to be much less than the septic tank system, and to be more effective, we believe we should investigate it.

We have asked Councillor Gatz, who is at present in Edmonton, to see Mr. Owens, and find if his system would suit our conditions in Red Deer, and if so what the cost will be to install it.

We recommend that the night constable be laid off at the end of March.

Chief Rothnie has returned to duty, having completed his military course at Calgary. We understood before he went down that pay was granted to those attending the school, as is done in Eastern Canada, but we find this was not done. As Chief Rothnie did not take the training for personal benefit, but to qualify as an officer of the Red Deer Squadron of Light Horse, and so assist in the establishing and maintaining of the squadron headquarters in Red Deer, we recommend that his salary be paid for the time he was absent.

During this time we did not engage a man to perform his duties, but put the night constable on duty.

We recommend that we be authorized to accept the highest tender for the debentures, for which we have invited tenders up to noon of the 15th inst., unless in our opinion all are too low. We submit herewith replies received in regard to sidewalk frontage assessment. We have asked the Secretary of the U. A. M. to collect information from all towns and cities of Alberta regarding all frontage assessments, and to send the information to us.

Mayor McKee has gone carefully into the specifications for a shed for horses, and we find that a shed 150 feet long with room for 21 teams will cost about $710. We recommend that a shed be not built this year.

The cost of raising the roof of the office building and putting in a Council chamber on the second floor with stairs at the back and side will cost about $1075, or, with the cornice like the fire hall, $1150. This will not provide for the heating of the upstairs. The furnace in the basement is not large enough to heat any more space than is in the offices. We recommend that this not be considered this year, as it would necessitate the issuing of more debentures, which it is not wise to do this year.

We submit herewith accounts for your consideration, and certified correct, except that of V. McMechan for $2.00, which we recommend be not paid as no pay was authorized.

We submit herewith list of receipts and disbursements for February. The report was adopted as amended.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid:

Geo. Bryan	$30.48
C. White	10.90
Geo. Bryan	8.24
F. H. Tallman	16.33
Springbett & Harvey	6.25
Douglas Co., Edmonton	21.00
Best Bros.	7.50
Gatz & Const. Drug Co.	5.35
Gatz & Gatz	1.05
Steam Laundry	.96
Smith & Gatz	5.55

The account of V. McMechan was laid over for further consideration.

Mr. Brazier addressed the Council on the question of inspection of milk cows. He contended that people owning cows in town should be compelled to have their cows inspected as well as milk dealers in the country. Some people had two or three cows, and it wasn't fair to dealers to let these people off.

The mayor said he had a cow and it was inspected. He thought all persons having more than one cow were compelled to have them inspected.

The secretary said Mr. Brazier was rather mixed in his statement. Every person with more than one cow had to have them inspected, but only once. Mr. Brazier's cows were only inspected once, but if he added new cows to his band they had to be tested to be sure they were free from disease.

The milk by-law will be looked into further at a future meeting. The Council then adjourned.

A Larger Milk Supply.

Patrons of cheese factories and creameries need not only to see to it that the raw material is delivered in the best possible condition, but that a large and steady supply is furnished. Can any means be taken to increase the production per cow or per pasture? The answer to that query implies a knowledge on the part of every dairyman as to just what each cow in his herd can produce. Does any stable nowadays furnish free square and good feed to cows that have no intention of giving more and that have no possibility of a profitable yield? Is every dairyman quite certain that each cow in his stable "pays"? It is an excellent plan to make sure of that vital point, it is the initial step in successful dairying, the foundation for building a profitable herd. The only way to make sure is to keep dairy records, then it is an easy matter to distinguish and dispose of any non-paying guest, and feed each selected cow up to her full capacity of production.

Through a continuous check on the yield of each individual cow many herd owners have been enabled to increase the average yield by as much as 1500 and 1800 pounds of milk per cow in three years. Forms for recording weights of milk or feed, will be supplied free on application to the Dairy Commissioner, Ottawa.

Military School Had Field Day

Major Gatz Defends Position.

The military school of instruction which is in session in Calgary held a tactical field day last week. It was one of the best sham battles that has ever been held in Calgary. Altogether there were thirty men in action. The sergeant-major of instruction officiated as umpire.

The scene of action was Col. Walker's ranch, south-east Calgary. Major Gatz, of Red Deer, defending the house and stables with ten men, while the attacking party, consisting of twenty men, was under the command of Major Kemis, of Pincher Creek. The attacking party was divided into two parties under the command of Lieuts. Coombs and Collicson. The attacking party succeeded in taking the stables, and bridge, but were repulsed in their attack on the ranch, this being strongly defended.

Operations commenced at 9 o'clock in the morning and concluded at noon. Col. Walker entertained the officers and men to a sumptuous lunch with his well known hospitality. The men engaged in the manoeuvres were drawn from the following corps: Edmonton Cavalry, Medicine Hat 21st Reserve Rocky Mountain Rangers of Fort Macleod and the 15th Light Horse of Calgary. The tactics displayed by attacking and defending parties were of exceptionally high percentage.

INJURIES & SKIN SORES—QUICK CURE

A little child ran crying to her mother the other day with a nasty flesh wound and asked for Zam-Buk.

There lies a more powerful argument for Zam-Buk than even the scientists can bring. The child had had Zam-Buk before, and knew it eased pain and healed.

Zam-Buk works in two directions. Prevents worse results from a skin injury or skin disease (such as festering and blood poisoning) while it repairs the damage already done. Zam-Buk is entirely herbal, is pure, contains no trace of animal fat or mineral coloring. Surest and quickest known healer.

FATHER AND SON BENEFIT FROM USE OF THIS BALM.

Mr. Walter Adams, 177 Railway Ave., Stratford, says: "My son, William, while playing football about the back yard, cut his little toe on the sharp edge of a piece of tin. The toe was cut at the first joint, and almost severed from the foot. My wife hurriedly bathed it with warm water, afterwards applying some liniment which she had used for a long time. The swelling soon subsided, and the wound healed. I have since used it for rheumatic pains."

Zam-Buk cures cuts, burns, scalds, ringworm, ulcers, cold sores, and all skin diseases. It is an emollient, I have also found it effective for rheumatic pains.

George Johnston has got out 500 fence posts. Good for you, George!

The dance at the Prairie Rose school was a great success, and everybody had a good time; good dancing, good supper, and good singing.

Encr Anderson and George Johnston made a flying trip to McDonald on business, Monday.

There will be a big dance at the Prairie Rose school on the 17th of Ireland, Thursday, March 17. Everybody is invited to come and bring his sister. If you haven't a sister, fetch somebody else's sister.

There will be a bridge across the Horseguard, on the line between sections 19 and 20, 38-4, this spring. Some of the go-ahead people are already busy getting out poles and stringers.

Fitting Tribute to the Horse.

C. X. Larabee Issues Postcard Eulogizing Man's Best Friend.

Brook-Nook Stock ranche, the home of the finest driving horses in America, and of thoroughbred Shorthorn cattle, is being extensively advertised at the present time by the owner, C. X. Larabee, who is sending out advertising postal cards with the following tribute to the horse printed thereon:

No animal on the face of the earth works like the horse; no animal anywhere is his equal in usefulness to man. He is the real slave of humanity; for never lived a human slave in any age or in any land who went about his crushing labors more uncomplainingly, more steadily, and more faithfully than the horse. He brings help when the home is in distress; he is the bravest that feeds millions; he soothes over the doctor to the bedside when we come into the world; he paces solemnly onward as he drags us to the grave. He is the joyous children upon his broad back, and he thunders to the hospital with the clanging ambulance. Through the streets he drags the mighty supports for giant skyscrapers, and over the boulevards of the park he sweeps with fashion and beauty at his hoofs. In the midst of plenty he carries food in abundance to countless homes, and in the midst of starvation he yields up his own body to keep life in the famished human frame.

And for this sublime devotion, this life-long labor, this noble martyrdom, how often is the faithful animal repaid with atrocious cruelty and vile and inhuman neglect! The treatment of horses by some people is immeasurably base; and it is all the more hideous because the poor animal has no means of defense, no chance for aid, no voice to demand help.

He is driven at terrific speed for immense distances; he is forced to wear rough and heavy harness over a sore and lacerated body, dragging after him heavily laden wagons, all the while suffering the most awful torture. He is compelled to drag overloaded wagons up steep hills, often cruelly lashed with the whip, and then after a long day of dreadful slavery he is poorly housed, often with insufficient food.

Yet there are drivers and owners of a different stamp. There are men into whose hardened soul no appreciation of the value and devotion of the horse is allowed to penetrate. They misuse the animal to an atrocious degree and they are impervious to his appealing look when he is racked by pain or worn down with toil, as though the poor beast were but a senseless rock. Such men as these know no pity, and because they know no pity they know no horse.

There is nothing overdrawn in this recital of man's inhumanity to his best and most constant friend. Happily, though, it is not a recital of the usual treatment of the horse. Turning from the consideration of ill-treatment, it is pleasant to know that in the hearts of the vast majority of men, women and children there is genuine love for this fine and good friend in the animal kingdom. And assuredly he deserves that love.

When you love a horse, you love man's best, truest and most useful friend in all the range of the world of animals.—"Our Dumb Animals."

OUR UNJUST PHOTOGRAPHS.

But the Other Girl Generally Takes a Picture That Really Flatters Her.

There was a group photograph that occasioned all the trouble. In the group were Beatrice and Eleanor, Jessie and Wilhelmina and Margaret.

Dorothy had taken the photograph with her new camera, and she prided herself upon the result. In fact she felt that she was the new but undiscovered art photographer, and when she showed the picture to the girls she knew that she was not conciliated in her expectation that she would be enthusiastically praised.

"I have the picture," she announced to the afore-named young ladies. "Let's see!" they exclaimed with one accord. Margaret got possession of the photograph and gazed at it long and intently.

"Well, I never thought I could look such a fright," she said. "Why didn't you tell me that my hair looked like that, Dorothy? It's perfectly splendid of the rest of the girls, though. Some of you have fixed my picture for me."

It is particularly good of Eleanor. "I was wrong," Eleanor almost forcibly took the photograph away from her. "The idea!" she exclaimed. "I don't know what you mean by saying it is good of me. You know my nose isn't that long. Dorothy must have jugged me to get such an effect."

Then Dorothy almost forcibly took the photograph away from her. "The idea!" she exclaimed. "I don't know what you mean by saying it is good of me. You know my nose isn't that long. Dorothy must have jugged me to get such an effect."

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN N. SMITH

THEORY AND PRACTICE.

WE'RE very fond of winter. We say it is so healthy. To wrestle with the snow. It's such a splendid tonic. The wind that's cold as ice. But still we always get it. It we have got the price.

To hear us tell the neighbors how healthy we are. A fine old fashioned winter. A winter might inquire. It we would eat a ticket. "That called for transport free to winter summer climate. Or pack our trunk and flee."

When August winds are scorching. And grass is dry and sear. The claims to date on winter. May then be quite sincere. But we must view the picture. At cooler, closer range. The feelings are subjected. To something of a change.

It's just a superstition. Some people may declare. They like the cold, but would they hold up their hands and swear? If they had wings for flying. With leisure, too, were blessed. Where would they spend the winter? That's quite the proper test.

Such a Waste. Just as we are getting deep into the canal business word comes from here that they are discarding their waterways. Perhaps they have taken advantage of the meanness of this season to discover our railroads and imagine they have found something larger in the line of transportation.

If they want to get out of the canal business instead of throwing their canals away on the old junk heap it is a pity they couldn't be a stout string on town and drop them down to us. We might be able to use several second-hand canals for awhile just to see how we liked them before digging new ones. With some of the fluffers who were going to do such wonders flash up for quotations?

How They Know. "Women are always talking about human nature. I should like to know how they know so much about it." "That is easy."

"Is it? Would you mind elucidating them?" "Most of them are married to a bunch of it."

She Knew. "Scribe is a rising young author." "Scribe, did you say?" asked his landlady, with the tone of one who knew. "That is what he is."

"Well, he is too young. Some days he don't get up till noon." "Certainly. "My dresser says that airy robes are bound to be fashionable."

"Does she?" "Does she? It is absolutely certain." "I wonder why." "To wear on airships, of course."

Effective. "Brown's income is so small that I don't understand how he manages to save any of it." "Oh, yes."

"How?" "He borrows a portion of mine."

New Record. The heights that great men reached and kept. Were not attained by sudden flight. That must have been in years gone by, but it's not so of vulgar wrings.

PERT PARAGRAPHS. Many a man who is playing a part wants to be the whole show. Beauty is only skin deep, but at that it is no more shallow than some other qualities.

Microbes are ungrateful creatures. They do not appreciate solitary plumbing, no matter how expensive. Women admire strength in man, but she seldom calls him her lion.

Ever notice that the woman who has a very narrow income doesn't get her face all wrinkled up over the servant girl problem?

It is remarkable how blithe and spry Father Time is considered here as so many time killers in active operation.

One reason why the lazy man doesn't like to work is because work seems so obviously to belong to the other fellow and he is conscientiously regarding property rights.

Imagination is truly remarkable in its results, but it has to be first transmuted into cold of the government.

Dr. Collison has purchased a 22-horse power Massey-Harris-Bowick automobile and the machine is expected in town at once. Dr. Parsons, G.W. Greene, Michener, Carswell & Co., H. H. Gastz and R. B. Welliver are also getting up-to-date machines.

Fred Carr, fireman on the yard engine at the C.P.R., had his left arm broken on Saturday afternoon last, and narrowly escaped being killed. A car had been shunted to the siding but was left a little too close to the main track and the engine, in passing, grazed it, catching Fred's arm and breaking it. His head was also struck but he got it in time or he would have had it crushed against the side of the window frame. He had a narrow escape.

Chief Geo. Rothnie has received a communication from Lieut.-General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, K.C.B., London, England, with regard to the organization of Boy Scouts in Red Deer. There is no branch of this organization in Alberta, and Sir Robert is anxious for the Chief to start the ball rolling in the west. There are branches in the east and at Winnipeg, and there is no doubt an opening for the organization at Red Deer. If a branch is formed here it will affiliate with the head organization in London, England.

ORANGE MARMALADE.

The best recipe known: Use only Seville Oranges and order them from Huskins.

Cut the oranges in halves. Slice the rinds as thin as possible. To every pint of juice and rinds add 2½ pints of cold water. Reserve sufficient out of this liquid to cover the seeds, pulp and inner skin. Let this stand over night, then squeeze through a cloth and add to first part and boil quickly for an hour. The following day weigh the whole, liquid and all, and to every pound add 1½ pounds of granulated sugar. Boil for an hour and bottle.

As the requirement for a small town is very limited, in order to not get overlooked I shall then buy, and where I have enough ordered I shall then buy, and supply at once. Phone 05 or leave your orders at store. Price will be right.
